There are many so-called "historical There are many so-called "bistorical" plane objects are but fantasies founded upon fact, but without regard to accuracy of the events or episodes depicted. They may be pictorial novels but they are hardly of any educational value. It has remained for the Selig Polyscope company to make a film that would at once be photographically perfect and historically accurate. Such a film is the remarkable production. ically perfect and historically accurate, such a film is the remarkable produc-ition of "The Coming of Columbus." This is a three-reel film, the making of which entailed years of research and labor, employed a cast of 350 people and coat $58,000. Such records of his voyage and the discovery of the western hamisphere as Celumbus left were followed as closely as possible in the making of this wonderful photo-play. Every fa-clifty of the greatest motion picture plant in the world was utilized. The Greeneville Team duplicates of the three caravels, San-ta Maria, Pino and Nina, which the Spanish nation had built and presented to the American nation, were fitted

The early viciositudes of Columbus are depicted. His pleadings before the Spanish court, his final commission to go forth on his exploration of the unknown seas, the incidents of the year. known seas, the incidents of the voyage, the landing on American soil, the return to Spain and the great reception are all faithfully portrayed by competent actors and recorded by the camera. There is not one defect in the entire production, which is the grandest masterpiece in the history of the motion picture industry. It is not known definitely as yet whether this remarkable three-real masterpiece can be sectived for exhibition purposes in this city, but the Breed theater is making every effort, and offering large sums of money to secure this feature for its patrons and expects to be able e make a favorable annuthin a few days.

No. 6 of the Famous 101-Bison Films

at the Auditorium. The first three days of this week, the Auditorium is offering an excellent programme of high class vaudeville and feature photoplays, headed by "The Crisis," a two-reel 101-Bison production.

It is not necessary to say anything about the magnificent scale these films are produced, as the patrons of the Auditorium are acquainted with these masterpieces, but the plot or story of The Crisis is a little better arranged than the former productions of this company, which were almost perfect. Suffice to say that the plot deals with the regeneration of the minister's son, who is fast failing lower, through drink and gambling, every day. At drink and gambling, every day. At drink and gambling, every day. At the can go, he sees the light, and by a series of heroic deeds succeeds in redeeming his past errors. There are indians and cowboys by the hundreds, also a detachment of cavairy, while the scenic effects are beautiful. than the former productions of this the scenic effects are beautiful A most pleasing rural comedy sketch smittled At Clifton Corners, will be one of the vaudeville offerings. This act is presented by the well known team of Ford and Hyde, whose country characterizations are true to life. Special scenery is carried for this act. A single act of the highest quality is that presented by Rouble Sims, the well known cartoonist. Mr. Sims is the creator of many funny pictures seen in the daily papers, and he will give the people of Norwich an idea of how a cartoonist works. Mr. Sims is also a funny comedian and a good singer. The third act on the bill is a screamingly funny team, namely Pisano and Bingham, who offer their own idea, entitled The Dago and the Irish Queen. The combination of two such widely different characters is laughable in the extreme. able in the extreme.

Besides the big two-reel Blaon-101 feature, there will be other photo-plays, both comedy and dramatic.

The atmosphere of the Auditorium is kept delightfully cool by their new electric apparatus, designed for the manuscript and other them. purpose, and one can enjoy the enter tainment in comfort.

THE HOUSE OF THE TREES.

Take me from the neisy light
To the sunless peace,
Where at midday standeth might,
Signing Toll's release.

All your dusk twilight stores
To my senses give;
Take me in and lock the doors,
Show me how to live.

Lift your leafy roof for me, Part your yielding walls: Let me wander lingeringly Through your accuted halls.

Rest is not quitting
The busy career;
Rest is the fitting
Of seir to one's spheret
Tis the broak's motion,
(Clear without strife;
Fleeting to ocean,
After its life.
Tis loving and serving
The highest and heat;
Tis onward, unawerving,
And this is tric rest.
